Best Vitamin C Serums: Wrinkle-Busting Skincare

Your face will definitely thank you

You may be used to popping Vitamin C as a supplement to fight an oncoming cold, but it’s also being hyped as a wonder ingredient in skincare.

Vitamin C is renowned for protecting skin from UVA and UVB damage and for improving the appearance of sun-damaged skin by reducing hyperpigmentation. Vitamin C is also anti-ageing as it boosts the body’s production of collagen to fight wrinkles and firm-up skin.

Finally, the wonder ingredient reduces inflammation and brightens skin. Dermatologist Dr. Gach says “Vitamin C peels the superficial layers of the epidermis giving a fresher and brighter look to the skin as well as strengthens the collagen fibers.” And if you need any more convincing, Adriana Lima, Halle Berry and Suki Waterhouse are fans.

Skinceuticals: Resveratrol B E

Sometimes it’s best to sleep on it. This night serum combines Vitamin C with Resveratrol, a compound that is meant to do wonders for anti-ageing. It counters ageing that arises from pigmentation problems, chiefly uneven texture and dullness in the skin. Dr. Paul Jarrod Frank, a cosmetic dermatologist, recommends Resveratrol B E as “Resveratrol is the strongest natural antioxidant that reduces [uneven] pigmentation and protects the skin from further free radical damage”.
