

GLAMOUR

The Best Skin Care Products Under $20, According to Pros

It can feel like the only way to get gorgeous skin is to drop your paycheck on the newest and fanciest creams and lotions. Good news: It's entirely possible to get amazing skin without going into debt, and we have proof. We asked top skin care experts to reveal which won't-break-the-bank products actually work. Here's to your skin—and your budget!

Aquaphor Healing Ointment ($5, ulta.com)

Far and away the winner of the unofficial dermatologist popularity contest, Aquaphor is kind of the OG multipurpose salve. "This product is great in the wintertime for chapped lips and dry skin," says Paul Jarrod Frank, M.D., a cosmetic surgeon in NYC. "Apply a light layer on the face before bed to treat very dry skin." You can also use it to soften cuticles and soothe cuts and burns. It's basically a medicine cabinet in a tube.